Beware of Employment Scams

Recently, we have been contacted by several individuals about a data entry job posting asking applicants to wire money in order to work for Arbordale Publishing Company. This is not something we would ever ask of freelance or regular applicants, and we are very concerned that someone is using our name to deceive people.

Please do not fall prey to this scam.

- Our company name is Arbordale Publishing. Any other variations are not representative of our company.
- We do not ever request payment with the promise of work.
- If you receive an email that does not end in arbordalepublishing.com, it is not a legitimate email address and does not represent our company. We do not have any other extensions.
- We also would never ask for personal information or send bank account numbers in an email.

We regret that someone is using our name and reputation fraudulently and sympathize with individuals that have been victims of this scam, but Arbordale cannot accept any responsibility.

###

Arbordale is on a mission to improve child literacy with science and math through fun to read picture books. Using prose and pictures, children are delighted with stories of their favorite animals, planets, or even places. This leads to the exploration of facts and learning activities in each book's For Creative Minds pages. Arbordale carefully designs each book to portray the chosen subject accurately. Vetted by experts in that field, and aligned to common core and state standards, each book is an asset to educational programs. Arbordale has grown to include a diverse group of authors and illustrators from across the country and honored to have won several awards since its inception in 2004.
